

“It’s not just about finding a job after your fellowship, it’s about finding one that gives you the opportunity to practice your subspecialty—and live your life. Achieving that balance is rare, but I found it at Orlin & Cohen.”

– Eric Price, M.D.

- Clear, subspecialty focus
- Doctors rank among the country’s top earners
- Strong hospital support with minimal call obligation
- Dominant, stable, multi-office, 30-physician practice
- Ranked among the “50 Orthopedic Practices to Know” by Becker’s Orthopedic, Spine & Pain Management Review

At Orlin & Cohen, sports medicine specialist Eric Price, M.D., treats athletes at every level – and surfs Long Island’s spectacular beaches every chance he gets. He’s part of the largest and fastest-growing physician owned orthopedic practice in New York’s desirable Nassau and Suffolk counties where outstanding professional opportunities exist for highly credentialed subspecialists. To join our team of fellowship-trained doctors, contact Michael Passet, CEO, at MPasset@orlincohen.com.

